

FOREWORD

On October 10th, 2020, Vasile Brînzănescu – Basil, as everybody calls him – will be 75. His long career was, and continues to be, extremely fruitful and influential for Romanian mathematics, through his papers, his books and, last but not least, through his courageous involvement in academic administration. Basil always regarded and practiced mathematics as a whole - this is a lesson he served us constantly. This volume is a tribute from members of younger generations who directly or indirectly benefitted from Basil's passion for geometry. The variety of subjects and methods proves that Basil didn't preach in the desert.

Happy birthday, Basil!
